

Yellow Duck group at Forest School

June 30th 2015

Come and share our adventure!

On our way...

We have a choice of two routes to get into Forest School.

Route 1....

1. Walk away from the Giant's chair and head across the field and then...

...Climb over the stile, pass the woodpecker hole tree, walk along the path until you find the Fire Circle. or...

Route 2....

...Walk along the path, pass the lightning tree and the tree that you can walk through. Continue past the stream and ...

You've arrived at the Fire Circle!

We noticed that...

We found lots of new things to explore. There was a lot of freshly dug mud around because the moles and rabbits had all been busy building their homes.

The mud mound looked very high to some of us.

Troy noticed that one of the trees had lost all of its leaves and wondered where they had all gone.

It's high up here!

We had lots of fun climbing and balancing today.

Logs...

Today we tried to see how many different ways we could use the logs. We found lots of different ways.

For looking at

For balancing and walking along.

For reaching a little higher!

Some of us wobbled a little and needed someone to hold our hand.

I can do it the Megatron way!

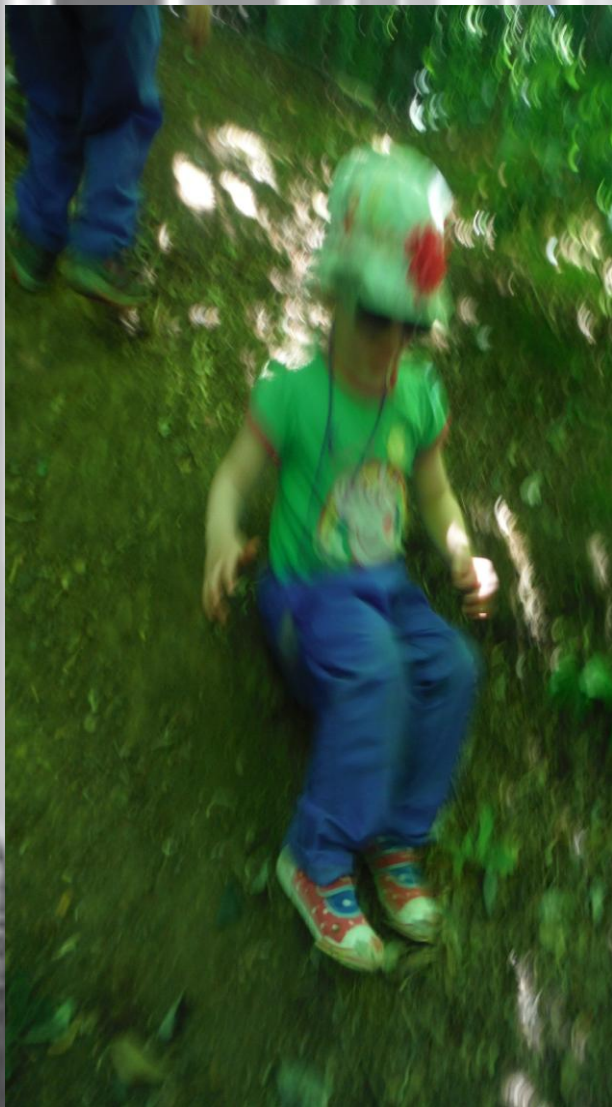

This is the way that Megatron would walk along a log.

Sliding

A muddy slope makes a fantastic slide.

We really enjoyed sliding down the slopes on our bottoms.

We made...

...pictures using flowers, sticks and leaves.

...potions.

Sticks, sticks, sticks

Today we collected some sticks and turned them into stick men.

We had to find a special stick. This one was very big. Troy tried to push and pull it, but the stump didn't want to move.

How am I going to carry all that home?

We all looked at the front cover of the story 'Stick Man,' by Julia Donaldson. The picture shows 'Stick Man' in the snow and Shande said, "It's not snowing today!"

Stick Men...

We used a pen to draw a face onto our stick people.

It's snapped!

A home for Teddy

The forest was full of homeless teddy bears and we were all very eager to help re-home them. There are lots of potential homes for a teddy if you look carefully. We know where all the best holes are and think that these look a bit like a bear cave.

Katlyn hid her teddy bear between her legs and made us all laugh.

Big holes are great!

These teddies all found a new home together.

What new adventures will next week have in store for us?

*I can't climb up.
It's too big. I need a ladder!*

Who knows, but we are looking forward to it!

This is a great stick!
